Relation: always a helping volunteer

It was with great shock that we read about Tom's passing this afternoon. We will always remember Tom for going the extra mile to help provide us with extra tall pine trees for Christmas from Texada. This past September Tom was one of the fellow volunteers that helped position Dad's memory bench close to the water at 2nd beach on the Willingdon Beach trail. We know Tom will be remembered by all as a very loving, caring and super helpful volunteer. Our heartfelt condolences to his loving wife Barb and their family. Tom it is now your turn to rest in peace.

Tribute from Travis McDonough

Relation: Very good friend

Frank and I worked with The Junior Forest Wardens for years, under the tutorship of Verna Erickson. He was a really great guy to work with, and like me, he was associated with the printing business -- him as vocation and me as an early life helper to my dad who was a printer. I worked in three different printing offices in my life -- my dads, my dads friend who purchased his shop; and a small shop in Seattle during my college years at the University of Idaho -- my folks had by that time moved to Seattle, and Dad worked in the Post Intelligencer. We had lots of stories to relate about presses and near death experiences near them--and on and on.

Frank was an avid fisherman. Whenever we had the kids out at some Jr. Forest Warden even, Tom seemed to find a way to show up with a great catch of fish. Stories around the campfire were epic and wonderful. We managed over the years to take the kids to regional campouts at Evans Lake, Provincial campouts in the Okanagan and National campouts in Alberta (and along the way). We did not see alot of each other at other times, but I always considered him a dear friend.

I hope that the trout stream in heaven is open for season and that Frank will teach the newbies the tricks of how to lure a lunker into your creel. My condolences go out to Barb and the rest of the family for the lost of such a family oriented husband, father, uncle and confidant. Rest well, my friend--you have earned it. It was a pleasure working with you
